

Professional Biography:

Mr. Joseph Pollard graduated with a bachelor's in Psychology from the University of California, Irvine in 2014, and completed a master's degree in Divinity from Westminster Seminary California in Escondido, CA in 2020.

Over the last 15 years, Mr. Pollard has taught part-time in a Christian private elementary school in Westminster, CA and at public charter schools in Phoenix, AZ in the areas of special education and as an English Language Learner coordinator for one of the BASIS schools before considering vocational ministry in the Orthodox Presbyterian Church. He has worked off and on as a private and contracted tutor in the subject areas of Math and English during this time.

Personal Biography:

Joseph married Andrea in 2015 and they have two children: Thomas (born in Escondido, CA in 2018), and George (born in Phoenix, AZ in 2021).

The Pollards have two white fluffy dogs and quite enjoy opening their home in Mesa as a form of Christian hospitality. They are firmly committed to active church membership. The Pollards enjoy singing their prayers with the help of a psalter-hymnal, tending Andrea's garden, reading all forms of literature, playing games. Joseph especially enjoys a leisurely meal, improvisation, skill and strategy-based card games, writing devotionals, and playing volleyball.

Philosophical Biography:

Mr. Pollard thanks God for the Christian education and church membership he received as his own heritage, and he is grateful to fulfill the calling of a Christian educator. The Lord's word is clear and consistent about the joyful charge of every Christian parent to positively and thoughtfully include and train their children about God, God's world, and especially about his ways.