Philosophical Biography

Robin has spent most of her career teaching in Christian schools. She believes that teachers are an extension of the home and are following the command given in Proverbs 22:6 to "Train a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not turn from it." She believes a teacher not only works to influence and train the child for today but for the future because we are given the promise from God that our children, properly trained, will not turn away from those Biblical truths they have been taught.
